

To help during COVID-19, most Oregon SNAP households have received the maximum monthly benefit allowable for their household size. The federal government has approved emergency SNAP allotments every month since March 2020. This benefit is ending in February of 2023.

- February is the last month that the federal government will allow Oregon to issue pandemic emergency food benefits.
- SNAP households will continue to receive their regular SNAP benefits after February.
- March 2023 will be the first month since April 2020 that most people on SNAP in Oregon will only receive their regular SNAP food benefits.
