Harrisburg grief support group

Living in a small outlying community, we know from experience that many people don't have transportation.

There could also be other reasons for preferring not to go into larger cities for resources. This is a missing resource in our small communities that we hope to provide.

Our goal is to be a non-denominational support for anyone in our community & other small outlying communities who have lost a loved one to death, who is grieving that loss and desires extra support after the dust settles and family & friends have gone home.

We are offering a safe, caring & confidential place to talk about their feelings and their loved ones.
